ACCUSED WOMAN TO TAKE STAND

Albany, N. Y., May 6.—(United News.)—Her iron nerves apparently unshaken by the dramatic attempt of the prosecution to convict her of grand larceny in connection with administering the 1925 census funds, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, whose political power was such that she won the highest office ever attained by a woman in New York state, will take the witness stand in her own defense Monday.

Many observers believe Mrs. Knapp's effect on the jury will decide the issue of the case. The defense of the former woman secretary of state has been shielded so far. It is considered probable that she will make a bold and sweeping denial of the state's charges that she padded the census payrolls with her relatives and appropriated thousands of dollars in their names for her personal bills.

The specific grand larceny charge is based on the alleged theft of a check for $2,575, paid out of the state's funds to her stepdaughter, Miss Clara Blanche Knapp.

Mrs. Knapp's brother, her sister, and her brother's wife were allowed by the prosecution to attempt to shield her from the scandalous charges Saturday. All benefited from the census appropriation of $1,200,000.

Mrs. Knapp's sister, Miss Julia A. Smith, definitely admitted to the jury that the $3,500 she received must have been for forwarding Mrs. Knapp's mail unopened to her at Albany and answering the telephone in Mrs. Knapp's Syracuse home. She was also driven to admit that although she received $1,200 additional as a "confidential file index clerk," she didn't know what the term meant.

Mrs. Helen H. Smith, Mrs. Knapp's sister-in-law, who received $2,420 from the census funds, was an avowed in her answers concerning her duties that she was reeked more than once by the court. Her husband, Charles Hubbell Smith, a former schoolmaster, testified from a hotel bed as to his duties as "assistant census supervisor."

CLEMENCEAU SAYS DEBT REPUDIATION INTERVIEW WRONG

Paris, May 6.—(AP)—Georges Clemenceau today issued an open letter to the weekly periodical Candida, which last Thursday quoted him as saying that France never would pay its debt to the United States because it is impossible, degrading having made any such statement.

"An unknown person came to my door and asked me questions," the letter said. "But on all these points and many others, it is my pleasure to keep silent. . . . I must refuse my door to all who are I condemn to see my thoughts disfigured by people who force their way into my home in order to interpret fragments of phrases in a sentence favorable to their designs."

The periodical had said that the former premier had prepared a second letter on the debt situation.

The new organization has made contracts to acquire substantial stock interests in Commonwealth Power corporation, Northern Ohio Power company, Pennsylvania Edison company and others. Allied Power and Light has authorized capital of 500,000 shares of preferred stock and 2,000,000 shares of common. An issue of first preferred stock shortly will be offered by Bonbright and company.

DANCE HALL FIGHT TAKES FOUR LIVES IN PRESTONBURG

Prestonburg, Ky., May 6.—(AP)—Four men were killed and five others wounded in a dance hall gun battle at Ligon, Ky., last night.

The battle started, Verlie Banks, chief of police at Garrett, said, when James Bush and Greer Gibson, deputy sheriffs, endeavored to arrest a member of a family named Newsome.

Friends and relatives of the man attempted to free him from the officers after he had been arrested, Banks said, and a fight followed.

DR. DODGE ENDS FIFTH YEAR OF PASTORATE

Celebrating the anniversary of five years of service as pastor of Central Congregational church, Dr. Witherspoon Dodge preached at his morning service yesterday on "The Church of the Living God."

"I may safely assume to start with," said Dr. Dodge, "that all of us believe in some kind of church. We believe in the church at least as an ideal. No one at all acquainted with history or with the present day management of churches would for a moment dare to be a wholesale defender or protagonist of the church as such. For no institution reared by man has been more guilty of fraud, fakery, phariseism, hatred and persecution than the church. And all of this in spite of its high professions and pious intentions, which makes its case all the worse. But we no more condemn the church as a whole for these evils than we condemn the home because some parties have made a failure of the home, or the state because some church may be divine or devilish, as determined by the quality of its teaching and membership; and at best, it is so far only a human institution."

Dr. Dodge then indicated four characteristics which the church of the living God should have.

At the evening service, Miss Helen J. Sloan presented her impersonation of Judas Iscariot in his betrayal of the Master, as based on the official text of the Oberammergau passion play. She was accompanied in the vocal parts by Mrs. L. V. Lombard, and on the pipe organ by Mrs. R. G. Sawyer. In spite of the inclement night, a large congregation was present to witness the presentation.

VICTIM OF BLAST IN SCHOOL ROOM IS MOTHER NOW

Ottawa, Ill., May 6.—Miss Iola Bradford, former teacher, who was horribly maimed in the store explosion at the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse last December, lay in her bed at the home of her father, Rev. Herbert Bradford, in Chillicothe today with her week-old son in her arms, trying to decide upon a pretty name for her babe.

Miss Bradford's son was born on Friday, April 27, at her father's home. News of the arrival of the infant was not made public until today. Hiram Reed, the former finance of Miss Bradford, who is charged with having placed a stick of dynamite in the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse, is still in the hospital. He has not seen the babe. Reed has never denied that he is the father of the child, although he claims he did not bomb the schoolhouse. He says he still loves Miss Bradford.

Miss Bradford has refused to let anyone adopt the child.

Reed was convicted by a circuit court jury in March on a bombing charge. He is at present at liberty on bond waiting for the supreme court to act on his case.

Lockhart's Mother Is Impoverished, Say Close Friends

Los Angeles, May 5.—Mrs. Caspar Lockhart, widowed mother of Frank Lockhart, automobile racer, disclosed that the family is in penury and that the body of her son, an idol of the sports world, is held in Indianapolis and cannot be brought to his home for burial because there are no funds for its transportation.

Mrs. Lockhart, who is the widow of a Christian minister, lives in a little place at 1033 West Sixth street, where she is a seamstress. She sold the family's comfortable big home some years ago to finance Frank's ventures in automobile racing.

According to her belief, the estate left by her son will amount to about $2,000, excluding his whole or part interest in several racing automobiles. Mrs. Lockhart revealed that Frank's brother, Robert, who went to Indianapolis to accompany Frank's body home, had been compelled to borrow the fare to Indianapolis. Mrs. Lockhart is said to have recently mortgaged the household furniture to equip her son's car with the tires that were on it when the auto made its fatal plunge at Daytona, Fla.

52 Join Church As Gordon Street Revival Is Ended

Fifty-two persons were added to the Gordon Street church in the revival which closed Sunday when Dr. William Howard Faust, pastor, delivered the last of a two weeks' series of services to a large congregation.

Despite rains a large congregation attended the meeting.

A feature of the closing day of the series of meetings was dedication Sunday morning of the new Sunday school annex. Special music, led by Fred Barnes, of the Southern Baptist convention, was one of the bright lights of the program. Mrs. Arthur McCreary presided at the piano.

The new annex is one of the most modern and best equipped in this section of the country, and was designed to seat more than 1,000 students. With formal opening of the annex, the Gordon Street Baptist church plant was completed, and the labor of five years, during which Dr. Faust and loyal and energetic members of the congregation have worked tirelessly and conquered every obstacle, has been rewarded.

Conclusion of the revival was a fitting way to the new Sunday school annex, and addition of 52 new members to the church was an appropriate tribute to the work of those connected with the success of the enterprise.

Dr. Faust spoke Sunday morning on "Quit You Lovers of Satan." The Rev. Dr. John E. White, of the First Baptist church of Savannah, and Dr. Walter Binnis, of the First Baptist church of LaGrange, also spoke during the series of services. Dr. White for 16 years was pastor of the Second Baptist church of Atlanta, and has a large following here.

Twenty-five of those who have affiliated with the church during the meeting were baptized at a service last Friday night, and Dr. Faust will complete the list following the prayer meeting Wednesday night.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Seriously injured early Sunday morning near the Highway 10 and Tank company, 611 Humphries street, who was attacked by an unknown assailant Saturday night, was reported at Grady hospital late Sunday night to be in a critical condition Sunday night at Grady hospital.

Hamilton was brought to Grady shortly after midnight, Sunday morning, in an unconscious condition, and it was not until he had regained consciousness several hours later that identification was effected.

NIGHT WATCHMEN, VICTIM OF ATTACK, SKULL FRACTURED

J. M. Drummond, 51, night watchman of the Highway 10 and Tank company, 611 Humphries street, who was attacked by an unknown assailant Saturday night, was reported at Grady hospital late Sunday night to be in a fractured skull and to be in a more serious condition than was at first thought.

Drummond was lured from his office into the yard of the company by a mysterious telephone call from a party who said that thieves were throwing lumber out of the yard over the fence, when he was struck on the head and received the skull fracture. As a check up failed to reveal anything stolen from the plant, it is believed that he was attacked from personal motives.

NUMEROUS CURES CLAIMED IN CITY BY FAITH HEALER

Despite intermittent rains, large congregations Sunday greeted Dr. A. G. Garr, famous exponent of faith healing, at his services in the afternoon and another at 7:30 o'clock at night. Dr. Garr will speak at his tent tabernacle at Gilmer and Courtland streets.

The speaker tonight will continue his prayers for the healing of the sick and afflicted of Atlanta. More than a score of persons have testified that they were actually healed of their infirmities as the result of the prayers of Dr. Garr. The maladies varied from rheumatism to heart trouble, according to those who claimed they were healed.

Deafness also is listed among the "cures" effected in Atlanta, and Dr.

Garr declared that the "blind will see, and even the dead live again as soon as we have sufficient faith in the power of Christ to perform the miracles which the Bible records."

"God is just as willing to help us now as He ever was, and He will relieve our bodily pains, cure us of our ills and keep us well and strong if we will but trust Him and obey His commandments," the speaker declared.

What happens in your motor

It is easy to understand why you should install new spark plugs once a year. They actually save their cost in gas and oil, and improve car performance. Here is how your engine operates—

The gaseous mixture from the carburetor is drawn into each cylinder by the downward stroke of the piston, then compressed by the upward stroke and ignited by the spark plug.

The compressed gas burns with great rapidity—it does not "explode"—and expands to many times its former volume, forcing down the piston and developing the power.

The full, efficient spark, delivered at the firing point of the spark plug, assures rapid and complete burning of the gas, with maximum expansion, and full power.

But if the spark is weak the burning is much slower and only partially complete.

Unburned gas is wasted through the exhaust. Some is condensed and works by the pistons to dilute the oil in the crankcase. Power is lost. Engine performance is seriously impaired.

For these reasons it is real economy to install new spark plugs every 10,000 miles, or once a year.

No matter how well a spark plug is made it is bound to deteriorate under the tremendous stress imposed by modern engines.

The higher compression actually delivers hammer-like blows. The excessive heat imposes terrific strains. Destroying chemical reactions take place.

That spark plugs continue to function under the extreme conditions to which they are subjected is a tribute to the great advance in spark plug design and manufacture.

And in this advancement Champion has always played the major part—always pioneered and anticipated the requirements of engine designers.

You may not realize that your car is sluggish in "getaway," that it lags on the hills or is slower starting—but it surely is if you have driven 10,000 miles with the same spark plugs.

Bring back new car performance by having your dealer install a new set of dependable Champion Spark Plugs today.

GEN. WOOD TO FLY WITH DAVIS TODAY

Augusta, Ga., May 6.—(Special.) General R. E. Wood, president of Sears-Roebuck company, arrived in Augusta Sunday from Atlanta, where he had visited during the latter part of last week. General Wood made the trip from the capital in the private car of J. J. Peller, president of the Central of Georgia railway.

The head of the big mail order concern came to Augusta, he explained, to visit relatives of Mrs. Wood, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Butler Hardwick, a sister of George Hardwick, prominent real estate man of this city. General Wood owns a large plantation of several thousand acres, in Columbia county, on which he maintains a model farm and a spacious game preserve.

On Monday General Wood plans to hop off by airplane for Savannah, Charleston and Greensboro. A Waco-10 plane, piloted by Douglas Davis, well-known Atlanta pilot, will be dispatched from Candler field, Atlanta, Monday morning about 8:30 o'clock, arriving here about an hour afterward. General Wood will board the plane during the forenoon and make the trip of approximately 200 miles to Savannah. He expects to reach the port city two hours after leaving here.

Overnight at Charleston. After a brief visit in Savannah, General Wood and Pilot Davis will hop off for Charleston, S. C., arriving there during the afternoon. It is the intention of General Wood to remain overnight in the South Carolina city, whence he will depart by plane Tuesday morning for Greensboro, N. C.

According to his schedule, General Wood will reach Greensboro Tuesday afternoon in time to board the Piedmont Limited for Washington. General Wood is an enthusiast over air travel and it is said he is a frequent traveler of this sort in the middle west. His pilot, Davis, is one of the most popular fliers in the south, and is holder of a number of records.

DAVIS TO LEAVE THIS MORNING

Douglas Davis, popular aviator of this city, who was engaged by General R. E. Wood, head of Sears-Roebuck company, to pilot him on his southeastern visits to Savannah, Charleston and Greensboro, said Sunday night that all was in readiness for the scheduled hop.

Davis will leave Candler field at about 8:30 Monday morning, he said, arriving in Augusta about an hour later. He will fly his well known "Waco-10" plane in which he has captured numerous trophies for stunt and other kinds of flying.

HEAD OF COLLEGE RESIGNS TO TAKE FRUIT BODY POST

Waycross, Ga., May 6.—W. C. Carlton, who has been president of Piedmont institute, here, for the past nine years, has resigned to accept the secretaryship of the Citron Growers' association, with headquarters in Lakeland, Fla.

FORMER SHERIFF OF TIFT COUNTY IS FOUND DEAD

Tifton, Ga., May 6.—James Marion Shaw, 56, for 12 years sheriff of Tift county, was found dead in bed at the home of his daughter, one mile south of Tifton Saturday.

Mr. Shaw was a member of one of the most prominent families in this section of the state. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

SPANISH AVIATORS WAIT ON WEATHER FOR ATLANTIC HOP

Seville, Spain, May 6.—(AP)—The Spanish aviators Iglesias and Jimenez, who are planning to fly to the American continent, still were at the flying field here today waiting for favorable weather.

The aviators originally had intended to take off today but postponed the hop off on reports of disturbed atmospheric conditions between Spain and America, although it was stated the fliers would find good weather as far as the Canaries and the Antilles.

The destination of the fliers has been shrouded in mystery, but it is the general opinion here that it will be Cuba.

Earthquakes Cause Religious Ferment in Moslem Country

Constantinople, May 6.—(AP)—Disastrous effects in Anatolia of the earthquake last Thursday were reported in messages reaching here today which had been delayed by disruption of the telegraph lines.

The village of Daghardi, near Kutahya, was said to have been destroyed completely with two persons killed and 60 injured. One person was killed in the destruction of the village of Inekolun, near Brussa.

Three other villages were badly damaged and thousands rendered homeless.

The recent earthquakes and the fear of more to come have caused a religious stir among the Moslem peasantry who attribute the catastrophes to the recent action of the government in reorganizing Islam as the state religion and to earlier attacks on Moslem fundamentalism.

Although manifestos calling for religious revolt are being clandestinely distributed, little is expected to come of it since the army is solidly behind the government.

LAKEWOOD CONCERT IS STOPPED BY RAIN

Although the heavy rain Sunday ceased during the afternoon, the band concert scheduled for Lakewood park for 3 o'clock was postponed, and according to present plans will be presented as a feature for next Sunday afternoon's program. Oscar Mills, secretary and manager stated Sunday night.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions, a large number of persons visited Lakewood during the afternoon, and took advantage of an opportunity to enjoy the amusements on the midway.

Fire Razes Church.

Jackson, Ga., May 6.—Fire, thought to have been of an incendiary origin, destroyed Moore's chapel, Baptist church near Pittman's ferry on the Ocmulgee river, Friday night. There had recently been no services held in the church, and this led to the belief that the building was set on fire. The church, one of the oldest in this section, formerly had a large membership. It was impossible to learn whether or not the building was insured.

Fair and Cooler Again Assured As Menu Today

Clouds and a continuation of the cool weather of Sunday, is the Washington weather bureau forecast for Monday in Atlanta and Georgia.

Rains are seen today in this section of the state, though it is conceded that showers are possible a little further south. The temperature is expected to rise Tuesday with clearing skies. The thermometer did not vary much during Sunday, the coolness making fires not inacceptable all day. The highest reading for the mercury was 60 degrees while the lowest was only four degrees lower, 56.

SPECIAL COURT TERM FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

Sparta, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—There was such a large volume of criminal cases developed by the grand jury investigations at the March term of court that the trial of all the cases could not be had in the allotted time under the law for a term of court, and the special adjourned term was called by Judge Park for May 14, so that the cases may be disposed of before the regular term of the court in September.

Three defendants, Minnie Hicks, Della Hicks and Mattie Hicks, will be tried for murder at the special term of the court, as a result of the death of Lucinda Lynn, who was cut to death with a razor at Culverton, this county, some months ago. Carrie Hicks, tried for murder at the regular term of the court in connection with the homicide, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to serve 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Other defendants who will go on trial at the special term of the court are charged with various offenses ranging from distilling and burglary to violations of the automobile license law.

A.M.E. CONFERENCE MEETS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., May 6.—(Special.)—The general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church will hold daily sessions in the Eighth Regiment armory, 6115 avenue and Thirtieth street beginning Monday and continuing through the twenty-fifth of May. The pulpits of the city were filled today by the bishops and delegates, representing all sections of the country: Africa and the sales of the sea. The main auditorium, the seat of the general conference, and churches were over-crowded here today.

Bishop W. A. Fountain, of Alabama, delivered the principal sermon at Bethel A. M. E. church. Rev. H. Y. Tooker, the entertaining pastor and members are the hosts of the general conference.

Bishop John A. Gregg, of South Africa, and Bishop W. Sampson Brooks, of West Africa, preached at the auditorium at morning and evening services. Bishop J. S. Ellinger delivered the morning sermon at Quinn Chapel A. M. E. church. Dr. B. G. Dawson is pastor. Bishops M. L. Gaines and M. J. Carey, heads of the local and general conference commissions, have done their task well, as indicated today when over 4,500 negroes of the city turned out to hear sermons preached by the visiting ministers and delegates.

The young people's anniversary and extension rally for membership was observed and special program speeches were delivered by Dr. J. C. Caldwell, editor of the Sunday school literature; Dr. Ira T. Bryant, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. S. S. Morris, general secretary of the Allen Christian Endeavor league, Nashville.

At 7:30 p. m. a program of consolidated choirs of the city was rendered at the regiment auditorium. Over 8,000 people were present to witness the contest between these well prepared and trained choirs.

Georgia's representatives are among the leading factors.

Bishop Parks expressed a doubt that any bishop will be allowed to return to his district for another quadrennium.

AINSWORTH URGES AD FOR WESLEYAN

Macon, Ga., May 6.—Many millions of dollars would be available to any school like Wesleyan if it were located in either England or New England, according to Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, chairman of the board of trustees and a former president of the college. Bishop Ainsworth referred especially to the historic feature of Wesleyan as a great point of appeal to traditional sentiment of southern people.

"Everlasting preservation of Wesleyan's distinguished place in the history of higher education for women," the bishop said, "is now in the hands of the people of Georgia, just as its founding nearly a century ago was left to Georgians."

"Profit in Character." Rev. Osgood F. Cook, of Albany, comments the greater Wesleyan campaign by saying that nothing with which he has been connected has given him "such promise of great usefulness in the promotion and extension of God's kingdom and the campaign for the building of greater Wesleyan." Mr. Cook recommends contributions to the $3,000,000 fund "as an investment that guarantees great profits in character and service."

Wesleyan is now on the eve of beginning intensive work in the greater Wesleyan campaign, in which it is hoped to raise the second million in its $3,000,000 program, it is indicated in reports from the college. Officials have expressed the hope that a minimum of $250,000 in subscriptions toward the second million may be reported at the next meeting of the board of trustees, to be held May 24. This amount is declared to be necessary to assure commencing work on the administration building of the college's new plant in time to have it ready by January 1, 1929.

GEORGIA ASSOCIATION TO STUDY PROBLEMS

Tifton, Ga., May 6.—With several hundred outstanding Georgians in attendance, the annual meeting of the Georgia association to consider the industrial and agricultural problems of the state will be held here May 15 and 16.

Among the more prominent speakers appearing before the gathering will be H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the Georgia Power company; Burdette G. Lewis, vice president of the Penner-Gwynn Corporation Farms, which are concerned in the marketing of Florida's entire citrus and vegetable crops; John L. Evans, of Ashburn, and H. H. Tift, of Tifton, two of south Georgia's strongest advocates of the Georgia association; President H. G. Hastings; Frederick H. Abbott, secretary and active operating head, and others.

It is expected that the meeting will result in a renewed movement to behalf of new settlers, livestock growing, dairying and specialized crops rivaling the historic "con-hog-hen campaign" of 1927, which is estimated to have increased the crop wealth of the state that year between 35 and 50 millions.

"The South's Market Problems," declared by business authorities everywhere to be the central point of the entire economic situation, will be discussed by Mr. Lewis, who is a national authority on farm marketing.

Mr. Atkinson will discuss "Agriculture and Decentralization of Industry in the Development of Georgia," showing that the spread of industry creates markets for farm products, provides part-time labor opportunity, increases social and governmental facilities such as schools and roads through increased tax receipts, and operates in many ways to raise the whole standard of living of the agricultural community.

His success in "Selling Our Large Plantations to One-Owner Tenants" will be described by Mr. Evans, who is a large agricultural operator in Turner county, birthplace of the con-hog-hen program. "How the Tift County Board of Trade Secured 170 New Farm Settlers in Two Years" will be related by Mr. Tift.

A directors' meeting will be held, officers will be elected and much association business will be transacted. All sessions will be open to the public. An inspection of Tift county's "ready-to-go" farms, pasture demonstrations at the Coastal Plain experimental station and a barbecue will complete the program.

Shaw, of Baxley; Mrs. McDonald, of Baxley; Mrs. J. T. T. Taylor, of Milledgeville; J. D. McKoy, of Valdosta, and others. The session will open Wednesday morning. On Wednesday evening Rev. Herbert Etheridge, of Lyons, will address the conference on "Missions," after which Dr. Susan Brown, a returned missionary, will speak. She will also address the conference on Thursday morning. Dr. Brown's address is of particular interest in this section and town since it was in this church when just a girl that she volunteered for service and was assisted through school by the local Missionary society, fitting her for a medical missionary. She served as a medical missionary in China for a number of years, returning recently to America. A large number of delegates are expected to attend the conference.

The matter of paving the highway is soon to be decided upon and the relocation of the road is being considered at the suggestion of state highway officials who will be in charge of the paving project when this is actually undertaken within the next few months. ## Salvation Army 'Clean-Up' Week Work Is Success

Contributions of old clothing to the Salvation Army during the "clean up week" have exceeded those of the same period last year by approximately 60 per cent, it was announced Monday by Mrs. J. R. Little, chairman of the city division of the Atlanta Women's club, which sponsored the campaign in cooperation with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

The figures reported by the Salvation Army for the month of April indicated, Mrs. Little said, the extent of activity in cleaning out closets, attics and basements, which was part of the "clean up, paint up, plant up" program.

New equipment in trucks acquired since "clean up week" by the Salvation Army, and in prospect for the city sanitary department, will afford more active cooperation for housewives in the continuous clean up program which was launched on the final day of "clean up week," Mrs. Little stated.

The Salvation Army has placed two new trucks in operation which will be sent any place in the city on telephone call to 175 2224 to collect old clothing, furniture, rugs, newspapers, magazines and books.

The city sanitary department is to obtain six more trucks as soon as final approval has been given in city council, which will enable increased collection service in all sections of the city.

The Salvation Army's participation in the "clean up" activities serves a double purpose of relieving householders of material which clogs up storage space and of providing a reserve stock of clothing which will be needed by the city's poor during the winter months, Mrs. Little pointed out.

KENTUCKY 'SHINE' SLAYING, BURNING BRINGS U. S. AGENTS

Shepherdsville, Ky., May 6.—(AP)—Walter Crenshaw, 21, was arrested at his home near here today on a federal warrant in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Kate Browning, 60, and the wounding of her sister and four children after the Browning home in the Browningtown settlement had been burned last Friday night.

Nine federal warrants, charging conspiracy to intimidate a federal witness and obstruct justice, were issued today by United States Commissioner Osso W. Stanley, Bardonia, Ky., based on information furnished by members of the Browning family.

Federal agents were sent into the region today "because of the delay of the civil authorities of Bullitt county in acting," Commissioner Stanley said. Shortly after midnight Friday night, members of the family were awakened and found their home in flames. Seeking to escape, they found the doors bolted from the outside, they said, and were forced to break through with an axe. Ben Browning, 38, the first to climb through the hole cut in the door, was wounded, but made his way five miles to the home of relatives.

The other members of the family, Mrs. Lou Browning, her two daughters, Angie, 16, and Mrs. Amanda Jones, 26, and another son, Peachie, 25, all were wounded as they made their way from the building.

The attack was believed by officers to have been provoked when the four women provided federal officers with the information which resulted in the capture of a large still and the arrest of Elmer Crenshaw, brother of the man arrested today. Both Elmer Crenshaw and Clarence Crenshaw, his father, had been arrested previously on charges of violating the prohibition law.

Federal officers assigned to make the arrests today were accompanied by Sheriff W. F. Moore, of Bullitt county.

Lord Beaverbrook Gets Soft Task in Sing Sing Coop

Ossining, N. Y., May 6.—A new job, that of censoring the outgoing mail of prisoners, has been given to the high finance, Lord Beaverbrook, known at Sing Sing as Karl Edwards. It was announced today by prison authorities. He knows a lot about love letters.

Beaverbrook, who was sent to prison for robbing women of their jewels after hasty courtships, was taken from rough labor in the yard company of prison recruits and given the soft job because he reads and speaks five languages.

He is said to be walking a chalk line at the overworked prison, because, having a ten years' sentence to serve, he is afraid if he transgresses any rule he will be sent to dreaded Clinton prison at Dannemora.

WHY DON'T YOU BANISH THOSE UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES?

It is foolish to go on enduring the embarrassment of a pimply face or the suffering of eczematous skin when relief may be so easily obtained.

Go to your druggist, ask for Black and White Cream, use it according to directions and banish those unsightly skin blemishes. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe.

For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Cream. All dealers sell them at small cost.

FLORIDA HOTEL FIRE KILLS ONE; TWENTY ESCAPE

Fort Pierce, Fla., May 6.—(AP)—One man was killed and more than a score of other guests escaped in their night clothing when flames razed the Colonial hotel here at 4 o'clock this morning.

S. Hildebrandt, of Miami, traveling salesman, lost his life, when he jumped from the second story of the hotel.

The fire, believed to have been started by the explosion of a water heater, caused damage estimated at $85,000. The home of C. H. Edwards, adjoining the hotel, also was razed.

The flames spread rapidly in the wooden hotel building and were beyond control by the time fire apparatus arrived. Engines from Vero Beach and Stuart, 20 miles away, also answered the alarm.

Hildebrandt was trapped on the second floor and received internal injuries by his leap.

Guests of the hotel who escaped in their night clothing were given assistance by nearby residents.

Woman's Auxiliary Of Presbyterians Increases Giving

Increase of $161,421 over the preceding year in total gifts to all causes, bringing the figure for 1927-28 to $1,642,281, will be reported to the next general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, meeting in Atlanta May 17-24, by the women's auxiliary of the denomination, church leaders here have announced.

Greatest advances, however, were made along spiritual lines, the announcement said, quoting the report to the effect that during the year 2,393 foreign mission study classes were held, in addition to 2,513 home mission classes, 3,840 Bible study classes, 5,611 prayer bands, and 1,394 stewardship study classes.

The report also recorded 21,964 family altars and 25,913 tithers, as well as distribution of 22,053 books during the year and sales of 28,000 year books of programs for the auxiliary organization.

Announced in the report, also, is the new standard of excellence for the organization throughout the church, a 10-point standard covering the aims and activities of the auxiliary and designed to operate on a definitely outlined program extending over the various months of the year.

With the submission of the sixteenth annual report to the assembly this year, the announcement said, the committee on assembly's work will recommend that the auxiliary's name be changed to the department of women's work.

The present superintendent is Mrs. W. C. Wimbush, of St. Louis, Missouri. This year, the announcement said, the auxiliary will devote its annual "birthday gift" for the building a nurse's training school for girls at Stillman institute, Tusculum, Ala. A total of $36,000 was realized last year, it was said, for the Jennie Speer high school at Kwanpin, Korea.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE SECOND TIME IN 60 DAYS

The second suicide attempt within a period of 60 days of Mrs. A. B. Mims, 22, of 412 Bryan street, East Point, was foiled Sunday night by her husband who found her in the kitchen of her home in an unconscious condition sitting on the gas stove with all the jets open. Mrs. Mims was rushed to Grady hospital in an ambulance and was soon resuscitated.

Mrs. Mims is said to have attempted suicide the first time by taking an overdose of her husband's medicine. Mrs. Mims attempts to take her life to domestic troubles, when questioned by doctors at the hospital. Mrs. Mims' condition is said not to be serious and she is expected to recover speedily.

SENATE'S PROBE BEGINS TODAY

ago and the revelations involving Harry P. Sinclair and the republican national committee deficit presumably have made all candidates extremely careful this year. So that the senate committee does not expect to discover any glaring evidence, although a senate investigation is apt to turn up almost anything.

Public interest in this investigation—barring the unanticipated disclosure of gross stupidity on the part of some candidate or the manager—lies therefore in the light it throws on what makes a presidential candidate tick.

To the tired voter who puts on his evening slippers and glances over the news dispatches, presidential candidates may appear to grow wild like the dandelions which plague his back yard garden. But if this senate committee does its job the ordinary non-profit sharing voter who has not had the illuminating experience of looking behind the scenes is due to learn a number of things.

Voters Will Learn Much.

He will learn, for instance, that presidential candidates are nursed as carefully as the bottle baby of a scientific mother.

He will learn how long before the public is aware, the senate committee and some of his friends talk it over and hire a press agent, after which the potential candidate's name begins to appear in the political dispatches, how the important men for whom the candidate has done favors in the past are persuaded to issue statements favoring him; how clubs representing various groups of voters are organized; how ammunition is gathered to answer the attack of the enemy; and how a little of how the candidate's managers go out and line up the delegates. One of the striking things is how little the candidate officially seems to know about his own campaign.

He knows little except that some are working for him. He ever lifts his own hand he does it, oh, very reluctantly, largely as a favor to some of his well-wishers; but once he has taken the plunge, he is one of the little formalities of the game, and no candidate would violate them by admitting he was going after the presidential nomination tooth and nail any more than a courteous golfer would propose that his opponent was addressing his ball.

Money Is Keynote.

The hardest thing for the committee to get at will be the real amount of money used. A presidential candidate may put up a modest sum in his own name, but any kind of real campaign costs thousands of dollars—Leonard Wood spent $1,700,000 in his 1923 campaign; Lowell spent $414,000; Hoover, $173,500; Harding, $113,000. Or rather these amounts were those officially recorded in the senate's investigation in 1925. They do not include other large sums raised independently and spent by various groups interested in the candidate.

For instance, in the 1920 campaign three rich republicans bought up the American Association of Foreign Languages and Newspapers for $100,000 for political purposes. One rich democrat spent $40,000 on motion picture publishing. The Illinois senatorial fight in 1926 Samuel Insull, public utility magnate, spent $37,735 for anti-world court propaganda which as its sole purpose posed the encouragement of Frank J. Smith's campaign. Such items as these do not figure in the senate's investigation.

The senate committee estimated that the 1920 presidential campaign cost more than $10,000,000 and said this did not, by any means, represent the real expenditures.

No legislation has been passed to reach these supplemental expenditures. Direct contributions by corporations have been made illegal, but officials of such corporations still contribute large sums personally and are within the law. Roosevelt once proposed that at least part of the campaign costs be paid out of the federal treasury to remove the need of collecting large campaign funds from interested parties. But many practical objections have been raised to such proposals.

ing inside the theater, the enormous crowd outside cheered thunderously.

Taking the correspondent of the Associated Press by the arm to a balcony where they could survey the crowd, Manu exclaimed: "Look at that mass of humanity. It could be paralleled only in liberty-loving America. It is not a mob, it is an orderly, peaceful assemblage. We are neither revolutionists nor bolsheviks. We want an honest government."

"Dropping their plows and shovels, these legions of peasants and toilers have tramped hundreds of wearisome miles in order to join the universal demand for the overthrow of the present government. They will return to their homes as peacefully as they came. The government will do justice and give us a chance to govern the country."

"If all peaceful means to dislodge the government fail, we shall be forced to adopt active resistance toward the government. There is at present no intention of disturbing either the dynasty or the regency, but our patience with the latter cannot endure forever. They must give consideration to the legitimate aspirations of our people."

The congress passed a resolution which is interpreted as meaning that if Manu obtains power he may recommend the abolition of the regency or some radical change which might leave the door open to Prince Carol either as a regent or as a successor to King Michael.

The resolution read: "This congress reiterates its monarchical sentiment but declares that the form of the government depends entirely upon its conception by the people, who possess the privilege to change the existing form if they consider a change desirable."

After the various resolutions had been read aloud to the huge assembly the demonstrators, with raised hands, took the following oath: "We swear to the great and good God to fight a righteous fight against the government which is a plague to the country and which was nominated by a decree wrong from King Ferdinand on his death bed. We swear that a new Rumania shall be created which shall stand for freedom and justice to all of Rumania's brave sons."

It was then resolved that the peasants form in three columns to march to Bucharest. Leaders of the party will meet tomorrow in Brasov where they will await the government's reply to their demand. Manu will go to Bucharest and formally hand the resolutions to the regency.

CAROL AWITS
"CALL" TO THRONE.

Goldstone, Eng., May 6.—(AP)—While 200,000 peasants today met in Albulia to demand a party change in the government of Rumania, the exiled father of their king, Prince Carol, awaited news of their action with friends in this Surrey village. He is visiting at "Oakhurst," the estate of his countryman, Jowett.

"I am waiting, and if Rumania calls, as I think she may, I will answer," Prince Carol told a representative of the Associated Press today. Speaking fluent English, he said: "Unhappy the situation in my country is not very good. Changes may come, but what those changes will be, I cannot say. They will appear later. I do want it to be clearly understood that I am not making a bid for the throne of Rumania. Some people may think I am trying to kick my son off the throne. That is wrong. But if the call should come, I am ready to go."

Prince Carol declined to speculate as to the results of the peasants' congress. "You must clearly understand," he said, "that I do not meddle in the interior politics of my country. I am not identified with any party or any politicians in Rumania. I hold myself above party and am concerned only with the welfare of my country."

To add to the general feeling here that Carol really anticipates that a call may be made on him is the report that a fast automobile is kept in waiting to take him to Crofton at any time day or night. From Crofton he would fly to Paris, where his plane is at Le Bourget, in a few hours.

BRITISH STOP
PROPAGANDA PLANES.

London, May 6.—(AP)—The London Express says it has learned that Prince Carol, now visiting in Surrey, is the central figure in an astounding plot to overthrow the Rumanian government and seize the throne of his young son, King Michael.

The newspaper, which devotes several columns to the story, says that British airplanes had been chartered to carry thousands of manifestos and scatter them over Rumania, but that the British government learned of the plot and forbade their leaving Crofton.

The newspaper says that Carol had expected to make an open declaration of his claim to the throne on Monday and to announce his intention of having Michael abdicate in his favor. He then planned that Michael should enter an English school as the first step to equip him to reign eventually as a democratic monarch.

BRITANNI EXPECTS NO DIFFICULTY

Bucharest, Rumania, May 6.—(AP)—Premier Vintila Bratianu tonight told the Associated Press that the peasant party congress held today in Albulia "hardly justified the importance attributed to it by certain foreign circles, bearing Rumania little good will."

He said that knowing the real state of things and knowing the country's desire for peace and the impossibility of any revolutionary act notwithstanding the foundations of the communists, he had readily assented to the holding of the congress. He added that the orderliness of the meeting had not disappointed him, even though it was marred by the adoption of a motion "framed in most reprehensible language."

He termed the congress nearly an episode in the opposition fight against the government, which he said, nevertheless enjoys the confidence of the people.

NEWSPAPER PICTURE IS DRAMATIC STORY

tor of a great daily, who defies all the forces of evil in the city to bring truth to the public. He has a son, typical American youth, who has not yet left behind him the toys of childhood, and who is what the average youth with money might be expected to be.

For the editor, who is portrayed by that dramatic veteran, Henry B. Walthall, a big day comes when his son is to go into the city room of the paper and begin his career. But an alibi party has delayed the boy, and he arrives at the office several hours late to the sternly reprimanded by his father and told that he must consider himself as any other staff man.

Lewis Stone, another veteran of the film, is cast in a marvelously different sort of antagonistic role as Daniel Steele, the political power behind the mayor. He has a ward, a charming girl with whom Bill, the editor's son, falls in love. This is the initial development of a plot which later is to grip viewers of the film with compelling force.

Tragic Scene.

Bill pleads with his father not to expose Steele and points out that he is to be married to Steele's ward. He tells his father, in one tragic scene, that the things his father has printed about Steele are lies, and Walthall sadly reminds him that a newspaper must hold to its great public faith at whatever cost to the individual.

To avoid publication of the exposure of Steele's benchmen shoots the courageous Walthall as he enters the office, and with a last dying breath, he calls his son into the office after the presses have been started and tells him that he must fill the old, worn-at-the-elbows alpaca coat which has been worn by the editor for so long.

But the following day, Bill, brought with a sudden, abrupt smash into responsible manhood, refuses to don the coat of his father, because he "would never be big enough to fill it."

Then the special reporter assigned to uncover forces of Steele's complicity in the vice ring, dashes in with the written proof that Steele is the boss of the ring. To prevent rejection of the mayor who is Steele's tool, the story must be run the following morning.

Test of Fire.

The test of fire is then applied to the youthful editor. His fiancée, with Steele, enters the office and pleads with him, and calls upon their love for each other to prevent publication of what she thinks are untruths about her guardian. But the boy, with his tragic and never-to-be-forgotten lesson learned at the deathbed of his father, tells her that regardless of the cost, the truth will be printed. The girl hands him the engagement ring and the boy is left alone.

Steele returns to threaten him with sure death should he publish the story the following morning, and as his answer, Bill calls the city editor and hands him the documentary proof with the statement:

"Let her ride!"

It is a quarter of an hour before midnight, one half hour before press time. A bomb has been planted in the editor's office and it is to be discharged at 12 o'clock.

Leaps To Press.

A dull roar and the city room bursts into flames. Steele reigns until the occupants are quieted and hurried down into the press room. The flames already are licking there and the pressmen turn to flee, but the boy leaps to the carriage of a press and shouts:

"Come on, boys, we're going to press on time!"

To that sequence is packed all the terrific drama of a newspaper, a scene that will be acclaimed by audiences as one of the most powerful cinematic moments ever known.

Two sharp clicks, a bell rings, and the crescendo of the presses is heard, and while firemen shower water over the flames, the boy, his reporters and pressmen leap over hose to get the press output to the street.

Marvelous camerawork tells a much more impressive story than the pen can, and a direction and technique, the producers have brought the Peter B. Kyne story to the screen in all its virgin power. Performances are splendid, but at no time is it possible for any individual role to submerge the great moral of the story.

Certainly, if there is but one film of the year to be seen by moviegoers, then let that film be "Freedom of the Press," which will have its world-wide public premiere at the Capitol theater week of May 14.

"A population of 500,000 by 1932" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

Cain Street Garage Owner Anticipates Patrons' Need

If the wildest dreamer of 10 years ago was to have predicted the evolution which the automobile was to make in this country by this time, his friends would have thought it would be to have him examined as to his sanity. While ever-increasing needs of the car owners all over the country call for better roads and greater service in no place are such extraordinary things done for the car owners' convenience as in big cities.

In Atlanta, as an illustration, churches, office buildings, apartment houses, shops and homes have been torn down to make parking lots. Any old-time resident of Atlanta would be surprised if he or she were to return and see so many filling stations and garages now located on lots where in other days were fine, stately old homes. One of the earliest men in Atlanta to see even in a small way the future possibilities of service requirements of the car owners was H. M. McWorther, who nearly a decade ago opened the Cain Street garage and is now considered the oldest garage man in Atlanta.

Mr. McWorther has been anticipating the needs of his ever-increasing regular and transient customers and he has been adding one little or big service after another until his customers know that a car run in his garage will receive even better attention than the owner gives it.

A service inaugurated several months ago that is now very popular with customers enables car owners living in the city to drive by the Cain Street garage and pick up one of the garage boys, who carries them to their place of business or the shopping area and returns the car subject to phone call to bring the car when needed. This service has kept many of his customers from getting wet this spring and winter and has been very much appreciated.

The hotel guest who spends part of his time in Atlanta drives by and picks up the boy, who pilots him to the hotel wanted, helps with the luggage and there are no vexatious delays or further worry to the tired traveler about his car.

Mr. McWorther has just built a little farther down on Cain street, between Ivy and Courtland streets, what is probably one of the largest one-story garages in this part of the city. It is fireproof and well equipped with the latest in garage equipment. Due to the splendid location of both Mr. McWorther's garage, they are the big downtown hotels and theaters, and the Atlanta or visitor who wants to feel sure that his or her car is all right while it is not needed can quickly satisfy himself that his car is well taken care of if parked in the Cain Street garage.

Large Packing Plant Here Buys Many Georgia Swine

There are not many people in Atlanta who realize what an immense plant the White Provision, Inc., is and all the great assets this plant is to the state of Georgia and the southeast.

This big meat-packing plant has nearly 20 acres of ground on Howell Mill road at the Southern railroad and this big tract is almost all covered with large well-built buildings that have been specially built for their own purposes.

The equipment in these modern buildings is of the latest invention, facilitating the quick and sanitary organization of a little over 300 people and so smoothly does the organization perform that the 700 hogs and 300 cattle killed daily are ready for the breakfast table of all the people in the Atlanta vicinity next morning. This is a government-inspected plant, and United States inspectors on the job that work as hard as the other employees. None but scratch men receive their status of approval, so that every piece of meat leaving the White Provision plant carries with it the inspectors' approval.

As quality is ever the watchword of the White Provision company, the plant and the products represent the best coming from a packing house. Cornfield brand is the buyer's assurance of the best when they call for goods by that name.

The president and general manager, Lorenz Neuhoff, is a man who has had a lifetime experience in the meat packing business. He is a great believer in using the latest, improved devices and methods in the quick handling of meat products.

Mr. Neuhoff is also one of Georgia's greatest boosters of Georgia's wealth by raising and consuming Georgia home-raised products. He bears out his own statement by buying 47,000 Georgia raised hogs in the first three months of this year, as well as over 3,000 cattle.

"There are a few facts that must be plain to all Georgians," Mr. Neuhoff further stated, "In the first place, there are now something like 2,500,000 people in Georgia. In the second place, we have one of the best states in the union to raise good, healthy hogs and cattle, and if Georgia people will eat more Georgia-raised meat they will provide an incentive for farmers to raise more meat in Georgia."

The people of Georgia have the opportunity in their own hands to provide work for thousands of people if, even in such a commonplace article as a meat product, they ask for a brand that they know will give more work to farmers of the state. The people of Georgia as a whole for our Cornfield brand, the more work we will give Georgians."

"When you travel but a few miles in any direction in Georgia," continued Mr. Neuhoff, "and see acres and acres of the best pasture lands lying out and going to waste and some of the good pasture tracts lying good, clean running water on them, it seems very neglectful. Good pasture land, if properly managed, will improve the land, give idle people work and increase the wealth of the whole state."

But for the children playing about the washer who are too small to look out for themselves.

There are no heavy, back-breaking pulls of water to be lifted and emptied. It is so simple that even a child can handle it. The water is handled by means of a neat little pump no bigger than a man's hand.

The new Easy Washer is a simple, powerful, practically trouble-proof. Now women who live on farms can enjoy the same freedom, the same comfort and convenience on wash days as women in city homes.

There is no wringing to do with the new Easy. Just move a lever and in less than three minutes the clothes are magically damp-dry, ready to hang out. No little water is left in the pieces that over the years of slacks will not drip on the floor if the clothes are hung indoors during bad weather. With the new method of wringing clothes, the Easy is perfectly safe, not only for the operator but for the children playing about the washer who are too small to look out for themselves.

The new Easy is the very latest model in a line of washers that dates back 50 years. The very name Easy Washer is world famous. Hundreds of thousands are in use today. A personal demonstration is no obligation. Write for a free literature. The Easy Washer Shop, at 110 Peachtree.

The Fort Lauderdale coast guard station was notified and all available boats were dispatched to search the keys. While the search was at its height the Louvenia returned under her own power, the party experienced nothing more than the inconvenience of missing a train which all out-of-town members had planned to take.

After 5 Years, 4 Mistrials Trial Is Finally Settled

COURT COSTS MAY DEVOUR BALANCE OF MONEY

BY C. R. HAWK.
Valdosta, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—After being in court for five years, a suit involving an estate valued at approximately $100,000 with liabilities alleged to have been about $75,000 has been settled.

A trial in the Lanier county superior court in 1922 resulted in a mistrial. It developing that persons serving on the jury were related to some of the litigants.

The case was then transferred to the Lowndes county superior court and it was found that Judge W. E. Thomas, presiding, was related to those connected with the case and he was disqualified.

Colonel E. K. Wilcox was named as judge pro hoc vice to hear the case and it resulted in a mistrial because of newspaper reports printed before the hearing was completed.

Later Colonel Wilcox became disqualified and Judge G. A. Christian, of Tifton, was named as judge pro hoc vice and the case has been before him since. The case was adjourned this week under an agreement, Judge Christian signing an order whereby all funds remaining in the hands of the court should be used to defray costs and for the creditors seeking an adjustment.

It is stated that more attorneys, from the first to the last, have been engaged in this case than any other in south Georgia. The case also has been before a large number of judges.

Judge R. C. Bell, of the court of appeals, signed papers in the case when he was on the bench in the Albany circuit; then the late Judge R. G. Dickerson, of the Alabama circuit; Judge W. E. Thomas, of the southern circuit, and the two judges pro hoc vice have signed his papers.

Pythons bought by 2008 are prices at so much a foot.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

STRIPED CHIPMUNK GETS A SHOCK.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Happiness somehow doth bring
An overwhelming urge to sing.
—Striped Chipmunk.

Striped Chipmunk has a sunny disposition. He never goes looking for trouble, but he is always watching out for it.

"A little fellow like me," said Striped Chipmunk, "can't be too careful. No, sir, he can't be too careful. There are too many people ready to pick him up. But I've often thought I must be rather dull to be so big that nobody tries to catch you. Life is never dull with me. No, sir, life is never dull with me. If it isn't one thing, it is another."

On this particular morning, Striped Chipmunk was sitting up on a big stone in the old stone wall. He was feeling exceedingly happy. Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was shining his best. The feathered folk in the Old Orchard were singing. So were Peepers and Nickerboys and Old Mr. Toad over in the Smiling Pool. Their voices mingled with the voices of the birds and together they produced a harmony such as one finds only in the early spring. Striped Chipmunk wanted to sing. Yes, sir, he wanted to sing.

Now, Striped Chipmunk hasn't a singing voice. But he has a voice, and what is a voice for if not to use? So it wasn't long before the voice of Striped Chipmunk was mingled with all the other voices, and, despite the fact that it was not a sweet and musical voice, every one who heard it knew that it was the voice of happiness.

Striped Chipmunk was glad to tell all the great world exactly how he felt. It is never wise to try to do two things at once. Many have found this out to their sorrow. Striped Chipmunk was trying to sing and at the same time trying to keep a watch for danger. But he soon made up his mind that he could do only one of these things at a time. If he were going to sing he wanted to devote all his time and energy to singing. He first took a good long look in every direction. He looked this way, he looked that way, he looked the other way. Black Pussy was nowhere to be seen. Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote were hardly likely to be up at the Old Orchard at that hour of the day. Not a member of the Hawk family was

RED, SORE EYES
"My eyes were so sore, red and inflamed I could hardly stand the light. LAVOPTIK helped them."—Mrs. S. Gould.

to be seen. All of the Owl family were likely to be asleep.

"There isn't a thing to be afraid of," said Striped Chipmunk to himself.

"There isn't a thing to be afraid of," said Striped Chipmunk to himself.

"I just must tell the great world how happy I am."

So Striped Chipmunk began to add his funny little "chuck, chuck, chuck" to the morning chorus. He liked the sound of his own voice. There were others who like the sound of their voice, too. It wasn't a musical voice, but it was better than that—it was a happy voice.

Tommy Tit took occasion to fly down near Striped Chipmunk and tell him that it was good to hear his voice. You know bright-eyed little Tommy Tit always has a good word for others. That is why everybody loves him. Striped Chipmunk sat a little bit straighter and sang a little louder after that.

And then, right in the very midst of a "chuck," Striped Chipmunk lost his breath. He never did finish that "chuck." Out of the corner of one of those bright little eyes of his he caught a glimpse of something that seemed to be just sliding over a big stone. Striped Chipmunk turned and stared with all his might. Little chills ran all over him. He knew what it was that he was looking at. There was no mistaking it. It was the tail of Mr. Blacksnake. Mr. Blacksnake was somewhere down in the old stone wall and was drawing his tail after him. Had it been Mr. Gartersnake or little Mr. Greensnake, Striped Chipmunk wouldn't have minded. But this was Mr. Blacksnake and it gave Striped Chipmunk a shock, for Mr. Blacksnake was big enough to swallow Striped Chipmunk, and he knew it.

The next story, "Striped Chipmunk Shuts a Door."

Fannie Hurst and Emily Blair ENTRY INTO POLITICS HAS MADE NO CHANGE See Sex Fail To Purge Polls

Editor's Note: In the following articles written for the United News, two well-known women writers take issue as to whether the women have made a success of the vote which they received eight years ago. Fannie Hurst, the famous novelist, says they have yielded to a man-made political world. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the democratic national committee and a writer, says women have acted like human beings rather than as a political Coxey's army as some had expected.

BY FANNIE HURST.

Washington, May 6.—It might be interesting at this time to conjecture from past performances and present indications, how the women are going to cast their vote for president.

What is going on beneath their sleek bosoms or nice marcel waves? If anything. Are they, as they place a check beside their choice for president of these United States, going to vote ticket, platform, individual or just because?

It is an interesting and enigmatic vote; this composite voice of the women.

It can scarcely be said, even by the most sanguine, that the voting mind of the women of America has proved itself stimulated or stimulating. The gulf stream of feminine opinion, flowing into the political sea of male psychology, seems to have merged without even difference of temperature. Women, as a class, have shown themselves easy conformists to a man-made political world. They have brought neither the anticipated freshness of opinion nor the hoped-for mops and scrub brushes for house cleaning.

Accept Male Standard.
The voting women of America have proved themselves a languid-minded 40 million. No use beating around that bush. Lack of intellectual curiosity, unoriginal thinking, political book worm, conformity to male-made standards, have characterized the American woman role in politics.

Have the first 2,608 days been the hardest? Is there any indication that in casting her vote for president in the forthcoming election, the American woman is going to equip herself to express that vote more intelligently and significantly than she has heretofore?

What do American women demand of the men they elect to be their leaders? Do they know? Have they formulated a composite picture of their ideal of the man best fitted to deserve and win their love?

About the most important indoor sport for the voting women of America at this time would be to find some corner of the house that is safe from male intrusion or coercion and there have out with themselves the importance of casting this forthright presidential vote with more intelligence, courage and originality than they have displayed in the past.

You can lead a woman to the polls, but you cannot make her vote intelligently, unless she not only knows what it is all about but cares.

This applies to men and applies and applies, but that is another story and another.

MISS BLAIR SAYS WORLD ANKS TOO MUCH.

BY EMILY NEWELL BLAIR.
(Copyright, 1928, by United News.)
Washington, May 6.—In view of the results of the elections of 1920 and 1924 I could hardly be expected as leader of the democratic women, to come to the rescue of the women and defend their reputation for intelligent and significant voting.

Nevertheless, as a leader of women rather than a democrat, I rise to ask you, when, how, where, expect of women that they would, should, or could in 2,608 days reorganize politics. The idea of a Coxey's army of women marching upon the embattled hosts of politics dies hard, mothers, sisters, wives, and sweethearts, not to mention the grandmothers and granddaughters, striking by might of a ballot the hands that feed them or as sailing the vested interests of the males on whom and by whom they have won their daily bread. How ardent is the hope of revolution in the breasts of idealists, feminists, and reformers. How perennial that expectation of wrongs being righted by such action, mob action with ballots in place of stones. Once more it has been disappointed by the women voters.

Must Have Moral Issue.
Given a Jefferson or a Lincoln as a leader, given great wrongs to be righted, given a period of intense endeavor, given economic independence, given a like mind on the economic and moral questions at issue, given entire freedom from partisan bias or prejudice, the revolution might have taken place. But women, alas and alack, being mere human beings subject to the influences and needs of the humans, just acted like humans.

Is all lost, then, even honor? Not so. There is such a thing as evolution, slow, lumbering, but sure; by its process the votes of women will have their effect on the technique of politics which is, after all, the only place they can have an effect unless women's opinion-factories—commonly known as brains—are biologically different from men's, which has by no means been established.

Will Make Slow Change.
The social habits, the occupational habits of women will slowly change the importance of casting this forthright presidential vote with more intelligence, courage and originality than they have displayed in the past.

The procedure develops by the trial and error method. Thus politicians will try to find the methods that will win women's votes. When they find successful ones they will supersede the old ones. Thus women's psychology will affect the "political sea of male psychology" and "male-made standards."

Among these politicians will be women. They, too, arrive by the trial and error method. Slowly, very slowly, some are arriving. They, too, are formed by their social habits, occupational habits, and they, too, will have an effect on the procedure.

So it is not to despair. But all power to Fannie Hurst and any other women who can make the American women vote more intelligently and significantly in 1928 than heretofore.

Chief Hansell had not indicated at a late hour Sunday night whether he would declare a holiday in the city construction department today or not, but reports were that he was considering the matter more or less seriously.

Dr. E. L. Connally Has Quiet Party On 91st Birthday

Dr. E. L. Connally, beloved Atlantan, celebrated his 91st birthday quietly at his home, 385 Ashby street, Sunday, receiving calls from his intimate friends and with a supper in the evening at which some 35 children, grandchildren and friends were present. The celebration was less pretentious than usual because of the recent death of Mrs. Connally.

Among those present were his sister, Mrs. L. Z. Rosser; three daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. John Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tom Connally; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Eliza Brown; his sister, Mrs. Sally Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paxon and Dr. and Mrs. Carter Helm Jones.

Four granddaughters of Dr. Connally lighted the 91 candles on the birthday cake. They were Mrs. Croom Partridge, Miss Constance Spaulding, Miss Sally Spaulding and Miss Elizabeth Spaulding. Miss Frances Spaulding, Dr. Connally's only other granddaughter, was not present.

Dr. Connally was born in Rome, and his family has owned the land on which the Ashby street home now stands since 1814. Dr. Connally entered the old Atlanta Medical college in 1850, and now is the oldest living alumnus of Emory university, as Emory absorbed the old medical college.

Dr. Connally served throughout the Civil war as surgeon in the first Confederate infantry.

In 1874 he brought his bride, the daughter of Governor Joseph E. Brown, to the Ashby street home, where he has lived ever since.

COTTONSEED MEN

PLAN AT MEETING

Columbia, S. C., May 6.—(AP)—A plan for the evaluation of cotton seed developed jointly by G. S. Meloy, cotton seed specialist of the United States department of agriculture, and a special committee of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' association composed of three chemists and three crushers under the chairmanship of J. E. Bream, of Alexandria, La., will be submitted to the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' association at its annual meeting in New Orleans, May 16, 18 and 19, Christie Benet, general counsel, announced today.

The association began nearly three years ago to study plans for the evaluation of cotton seed. Mr. Benet said, and enlisted the aid of the department of agriculture in its efforts with the result that Mr. Meloy has been actively co-operating with it.

The federal trade commission recently called attention to the desirability of some standard plan for the evaluation of seed.

The groom's father, Dr. Samuel J. Parrish, formerly of Atlanta, now pastor of the Gambrell Memorial Baptist church, of Saluda, N. C., read the marriage service. ## $600.00 IS MISSED OUT OF INSURANCE COMPANY'S SAFE

Theft of $600 from the safe of the Southern Life Insurance company, 203 Mason building, was reported to police Sunday afternoon. The loss was discovered by the manager, J. P. Wilkerson. The money is believed to have been taken by someone who knew the combination of the safe, as it was not blown or otherwise mutilated. Detectives W. W. Ford and J. L. Whitley are investigating. DeLamater's pharmacy, 200 Boulevard, N. E., reported to police Sunday the loss of $40 worth of cigarettes stolen from the store either late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The thieves made their entrance through the front door, it was reported.

A suit of clothes was stolen from a Standard Oil station corner Edgewood avenue and Butler street sometime Sunday morning. Call Officers J. W. McWilliams and C. P. Wright investigated.

ROMAN CATHOLICS ARE TOLD TO PAY HONOR TO MOTHERS

Fitting tribute to their mothers on next Sunday—"Mother's Day"—was urged on all Roman Catholics at the 11:15 o'clock mass Sunday morning by the Rev. J. V. Abbott, of New York, acting pastor of the Immaculate Conception church.

He announced that, while material gifts were most praiseworthy, the Catholic church was interested more in the spiritual phase and that, as a mark of respect and love, as a lasting tribute, the church urged all men of the congregation to gather at the Immaculate Conception at 8 o'clock next Sunday morning to receive the sacrament of holy communion.

The day will be featured by the fact that there will be four masses—7, 8, 9:30 and 11:15 o'clock—where, as a rule, there are only three. There will be a special breakfast served to the men who go to communion after the service in the Sunday school room.

At the Sacred Heart church, the main feature of the day was the joint communion service at 7 o'clock in the morning, in which all members of the Knights of Columbus, regardless of church districts, joined. The mass was followed by a breakfast at the Imperial hotel. As a result of the large gathering of men at the early mass at Sacred Heart, the Immaculate Conception service at 11:15 o'clock was a low instead of the customary high mass.

STUDENT SLUGGED, ROBBED AND LEFT LYING IN STREET

Three unidentified negroes slugged F. A. O'Neil, 22, Emory university student, who gave his address as a local hotel, into semi-consciousness and robbed him of $10 early Sunday morning on Forest avenue, according to a report made to police. After the negroes had robbed him, according to the report, a fourth negro drove up in a big car and hit him another blow which left him completely unconscious.

The three negroes are said to have offered the fourth negro some papers which they had taken off the person of O'Neil and then fled in flight. The incident was reported to the police by Ludo Barnsvooren, 282 Forrest avenue, who discovered O'Neil unconscious. Patrolmen F. C. Foster and J. P. Thrasher investigated.

Vols Send Crackers Back Into Cellar With 5-4 Defeat

Late Atlanta Rally Falls Short One Run

Olsen and Allen Touched for 11 Hits Each in Sunday Afternoon Game.

Nashville, Tenn., May 6.—(United News.) The Atlanta Braves today defeated the Georgia Bulldogs in a late afternoon game, 5 to 4. The Bulldogs, who had been leading 3 to 2 in the eighth inning, were defeated by the Braves in the ninth. The Braves scored three runs in the ninth, while the Bulldogs scored one. The game was a close one, with the Braves leading 4 to 3 in the eighth and 5 to 4 in the ninth. The Braves' victory was a significant one, as it marked their first win in the series.

The new fly chaser whacked out three hits, two of which were double barrel blows. But for a strong wind out of the northeast, Fitzgerald would probably have been credited with a circuit clout, for he crashed a drive off the signboards in left field in the sixth. His line single over second in the first stanza sent over the first home runner. Then he opened the eighth with another two-bagger to left field.

Gottlieb registered only one safety but it was responsible for a tally, for he sent one of Art Olsen's offerings over the right field wall a mile and a minute in the seventh. His work was superior to his thumping. He had only four chances down at the hot corner but he well took care of them. He made a divi-one-half stop of Max West's cannon ball shot down the third base line in the first and then threw out Jones on another hot one. Gottlieb exhibited a fine throwing arm.

Timelessly was responsible for three markers although the records give him only two. His wall wail in the eighth with Fitzgerald on base was a very important bit in the victory. His single down the first base line in the sixth sent Fitzgerald across but the fly chaser failed to touch third in his haste to cross the plate.

Hurling. Ernie Allen was picked for ten base hits but with the exception of the third, when Max West's fly ball hit on top of the right field wall and bounced over the fence in the ninth when his own wild throw to a maddened order double play led to a Cracker score, he turned the Georgians back without touching the plate. He whiffed Olsen in the second with the sacks loaded and again in the fourth with a Cracker on third.

A half dozen runners were thrown out attempting to steal. Eddie Lewis, who swiped second in the first frame, was the lone guest successful in advancing a base without the aid of a mate or an opponent's bobble. Poole, Gilbert, West, Strand, Lewis and Brooks were all caught stealing.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Our Record Breaker.

Ed Hamm has busted another. It seems that every time Ed hops in the broad jump he hops right plumb over the top of a new record of some kind or nother.

Saturday in the dual track meet featuring the Bulldogs of Georgia and the Jacks of Tech, Ed hopped 25 feet and one-quarter inch. He also won the 100-yard dash and set a new Tech mark in winning the 220-yard event.

Atlanta has watched her golfers in foreign competition more than once and now she may have the chance to watch the press reports of the Olympic games to see what Ed Hamm is doing in the broad jump over in Amsterdam. It may sound foolish but the writer is perfectly willing to predict that Ed Hamm will jump better than 25 feet and six inches before he finishes his athletic career. It is not beyond the pale of possibility that Ed will even reach or break the mark of nearly 26 feet set by the gifted negro, Delhart Hubbard.

The Gunner Did It.

The assertion that one can never tell just what will happen in athletics was proven conclusively Saturday afternoon when Old Tom Rogers won a game from the walloping Chicks of Memphis almost single-handed.

Tom has been anything but a boon to the team this season. He has flopped miserably in the box several times and when the fans saw him mount the hillock Saturday to face the bats of the murdering Chicks, there was anything but optimism in the air. What Tom did in his history. He scattered his hits very effectively and rose to the coveted heights of any pitcher by slugging a double with three mates on the base. It is not hard to forgive the old Gunner for some of his past failings when he takes fate in his own hands as he did Saturday.

Angley Hitting Stride.

The rise of Tom Angley from pre-season form to mid-season action in the short space of three weeks is most gratifying to the fans and scribes who believed the former Tech star would come through in Class A time this year.

It is to be remembered that the exhibition season found Tom doing everything wrong and nothing right. He was not hitting and seemed unable to even hold a pitched ball behind the plate. In short words he looked for all the world like a baseball player trying to fit in a notch about four steps above his class. Now that said refrain is gone, the melody doesn't even linger on. Tom is doing a lot of backstopping for the locals and is hitting like he should. He has not yet mastered the art of catching a foul ball but even that may come with more practice.

It seems quite probable that Johnny Brock will get a lot more rest this season than he has for several years.

Crackers Gather 97 Hits During Week to Lead Pack; Niehoffman and Barons Tie in Runs Scored.

Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—(AP)—A baseball run shown down on Southern association diamonds during the past week, permitting every scheduled game to be played, and during the 28 games, including those of today, 317 runners circumnavigated the circuit after garnering a total of 612 runs.

While the batting eyes were in focus, the sight of the fielders was not so good, a total of 86 batters having been noted by the official scorers. Memphis led in errors with 15 and, although ranking second in base hits, barely won more than half of its games.

The Atlanta Crackers, after beginning the season unimpressively, unapologetically led the league in the hits, with 97, although the Crackers, too, captured only four of their seven games.

New Orleans, sharing fourth place with Chattanooga as hitters during the week, ranked first in victories, losing only one game, while Chattanooga lost four out of five. Chattanooga counted only 27 times on 80 singles against the Peas' 50, but led in fielding.

The league-leading Barons and Crackers tied for first honors in runs scored, each with 54, and New Orleans ranked third with 48. The Barons, however, were not as consistent in their hitting, as they were in their fielding, giving the Crackers both of their homers.

Home Run Hitters. Taylor, of Memphis; Klinger and Blair, of Little Rock; and Davis, of New Orleans, also added two homers to their hitting repertoire. Others who hit for the loop were Smith, Stewart, Yarnall, Rosenfield and Morrell, of Birmingham; Levan and DeLoach, of Chattanooga; Barrett, Griffin, Standard and Engle, of Memphis; and the likes of the Rock, Vick, of New Orleans; Welch, Kinnick and Eggert, of Mobile; and Brooks, Gottlieb and Oglesby, of Nashville.

The following table shows the games each team has played during the week, including those of today, the number won, lost, tied, and the runs, hits, errors, and home runs scored.

THE GUMPS—WHAT THE WELL DRESSED MAN WON'T WEAR

Three Generations

By WARWICK DEEPIER

SYNOPSIS.
Old John Pym, formerly a bookkeeper in London and later in Winterbourne, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son, Conrad, sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pym, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the inn and the three are reunited. When Lance returns to Cambridge for the last term he invites his grandfather to visit him there.

INSTALLMENT XIX.
SELF-ABSORPTION.
Lance's three intimates, Sorrell, Presham and Pontreath, accepted the Venerable and were accepted by him, but young Sorrell was the Venerable's favorite.

His heart went out to Christopher as it had gone out to Lance. He was attracted by the essential cleanliness of the lad, his wise simplicity, that sudden smile, his air of oldness in youth. They went out and walked together. Kit found the Venerable easy to talk to.

He talked to him about his father. The impersonal is founded upon the personal, and the struggles and the braveries of Sorrell's father as seen by the son were understood by old Pym as few men would have understood them.

On one occasion they talked of Lance and of Lance's fortune. It began with young Sorrell's visualization of London as a place to live and work in and to be vexed in. For certain aspects of modern life did vex you—its ostentation, its hurry, its red lips, its many perfumes. And Christopher believed that his friend would do big things.

"He's got it in him. You have read some of his stuff, sir—don't you think?"
Old Pym's white eyebrows seemed to come closer together under the rim of his hat. He did believe with Kit that his grandson had the big thing in him, but one or two of the big and simple things that had become part of the mystic consciousness of Sorrell's son were still below the surface with Lance. Lance had the wildness and the fire, the generosity and the selfishness of the child. He was warm, a brilliant and lovable child. He had not become man quite as young Sorrell was.

One had had suffered more than the other.
Said the Venerable:
"It may be better for someone if he does not find things too easy."
"Have to struggle a bit, sir?"
"That's it. The easy thing can be so fatal. Besides, he has had things made rather easy for him. It doesn't do."

Christopher looked at a yellow elm leaf that had settled on the Venerable's hat.
"I have—and I haven't. What I mean is—my father is such a sportsman, he's so—"
"Ah," said John Pym. "I'll tell you what has always seemed to me to be the ideal situation. To be a sportsman—I mean that one person should believe in you solidly—while the rest of the world should think nothing of you at all. There's an urge for you."

Kit gave him one of his sudden smiles.
"Yes—I should think that's rather a sound idea, sir. But you have to believe in yourself."
"Assuredly," Lance does. The rub comes when you find other people hard to convince. Not even taking you for granted."
On the last evening of the Venerable's holiday they went to chapel together, and afterwards there came to old Pym a vision of life as it is. Lance wanted some tobacco. The great coat was hung with autumn vapor, and as they passed from it out into the town new lamps were changed for old. Modernity suggested to old Pym Pringles plastered with American electric signs. A shop window glared. The Venerable stood with his back to it, and the glare of the various windows met in the market place and were soled. Lance had gone in to buy four ounces of his particular mixture.

As he came out a group of young girls went by, looking at old Pym like so many pairs of legs and hats joined by flat strings of colors. They were full of giggles and loud talk. They appeared to flow past Lance and round him. The Venerable saw one of them look with a kind of infatuation into Lance's face.
"Sorry to keep you, grandpater." A girl's voice mocked him.
"So sorry to detain you—how—grand—father. So—sorry." There were little screams of laughter.
"Distractions," he said. "It is the vulgarity of ugliness—or the ugliness of vulgarity—that makes you scorn?" He stood still a moment, still holding his grandfather's arm.
"I suppose you have to bolt your self down."
"But not in," said his grandfather, "not in."

The girl stood at an upper window of No. 7 Parham crescent. The

BROKERAGE LOAN REPORTS HELPFUL

BY R. I. BARNUM.
New York, May 6.—(Special.)—Holders of stocks in and out of Wall street are not as much in the dark about brokers' loans as in the days before the federal reserve board started early in 1928 to make a weekly statement of the loans of member banks in this federal reserve district secured by stock exchange collateral. What the big outside public thinks today in the matter of brokers' loans is a very important factor in the existing unprecedented bull stock market. Prior to early 1928 when the federal reserve began to publish weekly brokers' loan statements, Wall street only heard of brokers' loans every once in a while. At such times unofficial estimates were made of brokers' loans by the Wall street news tickers usually at a time when there was overextended speculation for the advance. Such figures appearing at irregular periods were generally accepted by speculative Wall street as a warning by bankers that the stock market had gotten too heavy and needed correction.

Expansion of Loans.
Early in 1928 it began to be realized that five years of advancing stock market prices from the low of 1921 had brought about a great expansion of brokers' loans. Early in 1928 with the experience of 1920 still fresh in mind and with the federal reserve banks having recently increased their discount rate there was widespread discussion of brokers' loans. In November of 1925 the Federal Reserve bank unexpectedly advanced its discount rate followed early in 1926 by an advance in the discount rate of the New York bank. There was no mistaking at the time why these advances in the discount rate were made. A. C. Miller, of the federal reserve board said at the time that something must be done "to keep the financial atmosphere free from poisons of speculative enthusiasm."

"It is not clear just what positive action the federal reserve board can take to prevent an unhealthy speculation. The federal reserve system has nothing to do with it. It is its duty to know the use that is being made of the credit received from federal reserve banks to see that it is available for only legitimate uses and that it is not utilized indirectly for the support of unhealthy speculation."
Weekly Report on Loans.
Shortly afterwards the federal reserve ordered the member banks in this federal reserve district to make a weekly report on brokers' loans. It was at that time the high record for brokers' loans in the unofficial estimates published from time to time by Wall street news tickers was $2,000,000,000. The first weekly federal reserve statement published early in 1928 showed the total above $3,000,000,000. This unexpected large figure caused widespread discussion and uneasiness resulting in the break of 30 points in the average price of 50 representative stocks in March of 1928, followed by a rapid reduction of $700,000,000 in brokers' loans.

In making public its first weekly report on brokers' loans the federal reserve pointed out that during the period of war financing when it became necessary for the New York city banks to take concerted action to exercise some control over the money market in order to prevent a serious shortage of funds there was inaugurated a series of daily reports to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, giving loans made by them to brokers. These reports were made, it was pointed out, by the mutual consent of all of the banks concerned with the understanding that the data would be held confidential. When the weekly brokers' loan report began to be published early in 1928, however, the federal reserve decided to make public the figures by weeks back to 1917. Here is what the weekly report shows for the week ending May 3, 1928:

	High	Low
1917	$ 54,000	$ 63,000
1918	1,518,000	771,000
1919	1,364,000	807,000
1920	301,000	880,000
1921	1,648,000	945,000
1922	1,895,000	1,130,000
1923	2,160,000	1,315,000
1924	2,008,000	1,980,000
1925	3,141,000	2,409,000
1926	3,718,000	2,719,000
1927	4,114,000	3,685,000
1928

With brokers' loans above $4,000,000,000, against the low of $473,000,000 of 1918, it would seem in view of what happened in 1928 that the March of 1928, after the federal reserve banks had increased their discount rate to check speculation in the stock market, that the recent advances in the discount rate would have been followed promptly by drastic liquidation in the stock market on the part of frightened holders of long stock. Instead of declining, however, the stock market continued its upward movement, and the recent advances in the discount rate have not had the effect of checking speculation in the stock market. It is not surprising that this view is held by the big outside public now speculating in the stock market. Since the outward flow of gold started early last autumn the big outside public has been told repeatedly by leading bankers and high treasury officials at Washington that as much as $1,000,000,000 gold could go out without causing any change in our credit situation. It has only been a few weeks since the governor of the federal reserve board testified in the open senate hearing on brokers' loans that while he was not prepared to say whether brokers' loans were too high or too low, he was satisfied that such loans were safely and conservatively made and that despite the existing level of brokers' loans there had been no curtailment of credit for farmers and for business men.

This testimony, however, was followed shortly by an advance in the discount rate at Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere indicating plainly that there is a difference of opinion in federal reserve circles regarding brokers' loans. In the end the money and stock markets will give the verdict on whether or not the higher discount rate was warranted.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF COTTON MARKET
New Orleans, May 6.—(P)—Trading in cotton contracts was active during the past week. There was good trade buying, some price fixing by spinners and considerable trading by outside speculators. The trend of prices was upward during the first half of the week owing to the very bad weather experienced in the belt over last Sunday, but with a marked improvement in the weather in the latter half of the week prices reacted sharply losing all the early gain.
The high levels of the week were reached Tuesday when July traded up to 21.85, the highest point of the recent upward movement and nearly 82½ cents above the low point touched in early February. Although the weekly weather report issued Wednesday morning fully confirmed the reports of the bad weather and the extensive replanting necessary it also admitted that there had been some improvement in conditions at the end of the week ending Tuesday.
As it was believed that the recent big advance had full discounted at least for the time being the effect of the weather report was to drive the crop, recent buyers started to liquidate freely and as the weather held favorably to the end of the week the decline continued until on Friday July traded 145 points under the high reached on Tuesday and October was 143 points, or approximately $7 down from top.
The weather was the dominating influence throughout the week and is likely to continue to be for some time to come. With a continuance of good weather permitting rapid and steady cultivation the effects of the late start of the crop may be in measure overcome and prices seek lower levels but should the weather become unsettled again prices are not to show another advance in the opinion of conservative traders.
Two private estimates of acreage were issued during the week, one making the increase 4.2 per cent and the other 3.5 per cent.
The following table shows the high, low and closing sales in the market during the past week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close	Year
May	21.85	20.54	20.54	15.43
June	21.85	20.54	20.54	15.43

Mr. E. H. Maytag, President of The Maytag Company, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

Business: The Maytag Company, incorporated in Delaware in 1925, is the outgrowth of a business established by E. L. Maytag in 1923. The Company, which is the largest manufacturer in the world of washing machines, does approximately one-third of the entire washing machine business in the United States. The predecessor company began the manufacture of washing machines in 1909. The present type of washing machine was developed in 1921 and stimulated the growth of the business to such an extent that in 1923 the manufacture of all other products was discontinued. The electrically driven washing machine comprises the major proportion of its output, but production of the gasoline driven machine is showing rapid growth. Maytag machines are distributed throughout the entire United States, through an organization consisting of approximately 2,000 dealers who distribute Maytag products exclusively, and through about 1,600 hardware, furniture, implement and department stores. Approximately 90% of the Company's sales are made on the basis of immediate cash payment on sight draft. In Canada the machines are distributed through The Maytag Company, Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary. The plant of the Company at Newton, Iowa, has a total capacity for producing over 600,000 machines annually.

Earnings: The net sales and the net earnings of the Company (including its predecessor company) and its wholly owned subsidiary, after all charges, including depreciation and Federal Taxes, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, have been as follows:

Year Ended	Net Sales	Net Earnings	Machines Sold
1924	$9,318,893	$2,267,309	136,895
1925	17,463,738	4,341,180	186,390
1926	28,772,041	6,817,742	303,356
1927	25,251,894	6,151,688	264,911

Net earnings, as shown above, for 1927 are over 10 times the annual dividend requirements on the First Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. Such net earnings for the four-year period ended December 31, 1927, averaged over 8 times such annual dividend requirements.

The introduction of a new model in September, 1927, necessitating certain manufacturing adjustments, was responsible for the smaller production last year than in the year preceding. With the exception of the third quarter of the year, when this new model was introduced, net earnings for each quarterly period of 1927 were higher than for the corresponding quarter of 1926. In order to synchronize

The Company has agreed to make application to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

THE FOURTH DAY OF THE SIEGE OF BEECHER'S ISLAND FOUND FORSYTH'S MEN FACING A DESPERATE SITUATION. THEY WERE HEMMED IN BY THE HOSTILES, UNABLE TO MOVE FROM THEIR SHALLOW RIFLE PITS WITHOUT DRAWING A SHOT, AND WITH NOTHING TO EAT BUT THE FLESH OF THEIR SLAIN HORSES.

THE RED MEN MADE NO FURTHER ATTEMPT TO ATTACK THE LITTLE RING OF SCOUTS ON THE ISLAND, BUT KEPT A VIGILANT WATCH TO SEE THAT NONE ESCAPED. OCCASIONALLY THEY FIRED ON THE DEFENDERS TO SHOW THEM THEY WERE ON THE ALERT.

ON THE FIFTH DAY THE ANIMAL MEAT BECAME UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION. THE SCOUTS WERE NOW DOOMED TO STARVE UNLESS HELP REACHED THEM SPEEDILY. THE WOUNDED SUFFERED SILENT AGONIES FOR LACK OF THE NECESSARY MEDICAL ATTENTION.

BUT NEITHER HUNGER, WOUNDS, NOR THE STRAIN OF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS COULD CONQUER THE INDOMITABLE SPIRIT OF FORSYTH'S MEN. THE HAGGARD SCOUTS DREW BETTER TOGETHER AROUND EMPTY STOMACHS, KEPT THEIR RIFLES, AND CHEERED ONE ANOTHER WITH THE ASSURANCE THAT HELP WOULD SOON COME. TOMORROW—NEARING THE ISLAND.
